

THE STORY

Four friends named Peter, Patrick, Paula and Patricia went to the local diner for lunch. They each ordered a different main dish, a different side dish, a different beverage and a different dessert. They ordered meat loaf, baked ham, fried chicken and roast beef. Their side dishes were green beans, mashed potatoes, lima beans and peas. To drink, they ordered coffee, tea, orange juice and cola. For dessert, they ordered apple pie, ice cream, cake and rice pudding. Based on the clues, match the friends with what they ate and drank.

THE CLUES

1. The person who ordered the roast beef also ordered the mashed potatoes and tea.
2. The person who ordered rice pudding drank cola.
3. The person who ordered the meat loaf did not order either apple pie or ice cream for dessert.
4. Patrick and Patricia did not order either the meat loaf or the baked ham, and Peter and Paula did not order either tea or cola.
5. Paula looked at the person who ordered meat loaf and coffee and was sorry she did not order either of those two items.
6. Patricia asked the person who was eating mashed potatoes if she could have a bite of them, as they looked delicious.
7. Paula offered to trade desserts with the person who ordered apple pie.
8. The person who ordered lima beans also ordered ice cream.
9. Peter did not order peas because he did not like them.

A Day in the Life of Four Crows

THE STORY

Four crows sat around one evening discussing the events of the day. Their names were Jake, John, Joan and Jenny. Many of the things they did that day were similar, but no crow did exactly the same thing as any other crow. They all said "hello" to and annoyed another animal that day, but each crow said "hello" to and annoyed a different animal. They said "hello" to a rabbit, a skunk, a squirrel and a cat. And they annoyed a chicken, a fox, a cow and an owl. They all wore pajamas, but each crow wore a different color. Their pajamas were pink, blue, yellow and green. They all drank a different hot beverage; they drank hot tea, hot milk, hot cocoa and hot coffee. Based on the clues, match the crows with the animals they said "hello" to, the animals they annoyed, their pajama colors and their hot beverages.

THE CLUES

1. The crow wearing the pink pajamas annoyed a fox and drank hot milk.
2. The crow that said "hello" to a skunk annoyed a cow and wore blue pajamas.
3. John and Jenny annoyed the chicken and the owl, but maybe not in that particular order.
4. The crow in the yellow pajamas drank hot cocoa.
5. The crow that said "hello" to a cat wore green pajamas, drank hot tea, and thought John's pajamas did not fit him very well.
6. Joan did not wear blue pajamas.
7. Jenny did not annoy a chicken, and John did not say "hello" to a rabbit.
