

THE STORY

There were four finalists in the "Best of Elvis" impersonators contest. Their first names were Bob, Ben, Bert and Bill, and their last names were Tupelo, Memphis, Graceland and Aaron. They all sang different Elvis songs. They sang "Hound Dog," "Jailhouse Rock," "Blue Hawaii" and "In The Ghetto." They all had a different Elvis mannerism that they performed best. They did the hip thrust, hip waggle, hip bump and the hip shake. They all had huge record collections and all had a different number of albums; they had 250, 275, 300 and 500 albums. Based on the clues, match first names with last names, their Elvis songs, their Elvis mannerisms and the number of albums in their record collections.

THE CLUES

1. Memphis sang "Hound Dog," did a great hip bump, and his record collection contained only 50 more albums than the competitor with the smallest record collection.
2. The man who sang "Jailhouse Rock" did a great hip thrust, and his record collection contained 25 albums less than Memphis' record collection.
3. Tupelo's record collection contained twice as many albums as Bob's collection.
4. Ben and Bert had the two largest record collections.
5. The competitor with the largest record collection did such a great hip shake that he also shook the stage and the audience!
6. Graceland's record collection was smaller than Aaron's collection, and he sang "In The Ghetto."
7. Ben's last name was not Tupelo.

THE STORY

Five anteaters named Alice, Alfred, Alan, Anne and Arlene met for dinner and discussed what they thought were the best tasting ants. Their favorite ants were harvester ants, termites, army ants, honey ants and leafcutter ants. Anteaters, as everyone knows, love music. The five anteaters loved to wear headsets and listen to their favorite songs while they ate. Each had a different favorite song. Their favorite songs were "Anticipation," "National Anthem," "Antilly Lace," "Canty Man" and "Dianta." Based on the clues, match the anteaters with their favorite ants and their favorite songs.

THE CLUES

1. The anteater that enjoyed slurping down army ants listened to the "National Anthem."
2. Alan and Anne never listened to either "Anticipation" or the "National Anthem."
3. Alice and Alfred were very picky eaters and did not like the taste of harvester ants, termites and army ants.
4. The anteater that loved harvester ants played the song "Canty Man" over and over.
5. Alfred did not eat honey ants, and Alan did not play either "Canty Man" or "Dianta."
6. The anteater that ate leafcutter ants listened to "Anticipation."
